

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A container plug attaching device for attaching to an edge portion of a container defining an outlet O thereof a tubular plug P having an opening at one end and a flange F around an edge portion defining the opening comprises an anvil 33 and a sealing member 36 for clamping therebetween the container edge portion and the flange F as pressed against the container edge portion for sealing, a rotary shaft 31 having the anvil 33 mounted thereon and projecting radially thereof, a projection 61 provided on an outer end portion of a clamping face 32 of the anvil 33, drive means for intermittently rotating the rotary shaft 31 so as to stop the anvil 33 only in a sealing posture with the projection 61 opposed to the sealing member 36, and supply means for supplying the plug P to the anvil 33 in rotation for the projection 61 to hold the plug P as fitted thereover.